It hath been prophesied to me many years.
I should not die but in Jerusalem :
Which vainly I suppos'd, the Holy Land :
But, bear me to that chamber; there I'll lie :
In that Jerusalem shall Harry die.

[Exeunt.

answer was made, that it was called Jerusalem. Then said the king: Lauds be given to the Father of heaven, for now I know that I shall die here in this chamber, according to the prophesie of me declared, that I should depart this life in Jerusalem.
Holinshed, p. 541.

The same equivocal prediction occurs also in the Orygynale Cronykil of Androw of Wyntown, b. vi. ch. xii. v. 417. Pope Sylvester, having sold himself to the devil for the* sake of worldly advancement, was desirous of knowing how long he should live and enjoy it :

"The dewil answervd hym agayne*
" That in all ese wythowtyn payn$
" He suld lyve in prosperytē»
" Jerusalem quhill he suld se."

Our Pope soon afterwards was conducted, by the duties of his office, into a church he had never visited before ;

 Then servyd he, quhat thai cysyd to call c< That kyrk. Than thai answervd all,
 Jerusalem in Vy Laterane," &c. &c.

And then the prophecy was completed by his death.

The same story of Pope Sylvester is told in Lodge's Devil Conjured, where, however, the reader will have the satisfaction to find that his holiness at last outwitted the devil. The following communication was received by Mr. Malone from the late very learned and excellent Dean of Westminster, nomen mihi semper honors-turn. Bos WELL.

Robert Guiscard, king of Sicily, when invading the Greek empire, arrives at Cephallenia, and lying at Cape Ather, is seized with a fever. He asks for water; when his people dispersing about the island to find a spring, one of the inhabitants addresses them:
